Rushdown Revolt is an electric, combo centric, platform fighter which brings power-up, recovery, and dodge in a way that makes it feel like a completely different game to play. The addition of Combo Combustion & Spark Balancing, a unique Spark mechanic which allows players to avoid combo's from the in-game Danger Zone and preserve a good amount of their combo meter, make Rushdown Revolt the most electric, combo centric, and expressive fighting game since Melee! It's the most electric and fun platform fighter I have played in many years. The combos can be sniped in a matter of a few millis, as well as made to launch you into the stratosphere! Some of the characters are extremely fun to play, with some of the fastest and most aggressive combo's in the game, the combat is lightning fast with a high skill cap. Vortex Rollback is the very best way to play the game in the west, whether you have a console or a Steam version! The most electric, combo centric and expressive fighting game since Smash is now FREE TO PLAY on Steam! ✓ Unique "Spark" Mechanic For Electric Combos ✓ 10 Heroes w/ Different Styles & Skill Caps ✓ 90+% Positive on Steam w/ 1,100 Reviews ✓ Play w/ Up To 8 Friends Online ✓ Super Active, Friendly Discord Community "Easily the most innovative platform fighter since Melee. An incredibly deep, rich, and sick gameplay experience. Highly recommended." "This game is incredible, you will not regret trying it I assure you. It's Melee on crack, and incredibly fun. The combos are fluid, feel amazing, and have a high skill ceiling. Nothing to lose!" "Legit the best platform fighter on the market. Super fast and aggro matches with spark canceling." Ignite your spark with the most electric, combo-centric and expressive fighting game. Our active Discord community is the perfect place to find your next battle! With character specific dojo, support channels, and die hard players ready to offer helpful tips to beginners, this is the all around hub for Rushdown Revolt! Join our Discord here: discord.gg/rushdownrevolt Ready to test your skills by competing with other players? Our community-based tournaments are the perfect ways to push yourself

"The Lone Blade" is a simple and fun game by 3-Bit. Problems: -The pitch for the game seems to be a little un-inspiring.-Im not sure if the character moves in a linear fashion unless I did something wrong. Could someone more experienced with "The Lone Blade" tell me if this is a moving platformer and if there's anything else I should be concerned about? I'm not a programmer or anything like that, just a lil' noob. Thanks. EDIT: I have a video with my testing of the game showing my current progress. It's a slow, choppy, and out-of-balance game but it appears to run fine on Windows 7. What I'm saying is, I haven't seen the game in a few years and I can't be sure how much development it has had since. Best thing about this game was the story. Especially the ending. The gameplay was not bad, but the story was nice. The combat system was a little complicated for me to understand but I figured it out after some time. The run speed was a little too fast for me, I feel. That's about it. I liked this game a lot and I'd probably play it again, but I'm not expecting much in the way of popularity, sadly. You must be into this 3-Bit/The Midnight Club thing, though. Hey I know it's a little late but I just wanted to post some thoughts on The Lone Blade. I was looking through the comments you guys made and saw some of you mention how you didn't understand how to move around in the levels. I did notice that, but I also didn't find it easy to figure out. However, even though this was a platform game, The Lone Blade looks like it could be an RPG. I'm not sure if that's why the overall difficulty could be lowered, but I'm going to keep looking at the comments for more info. Let me know what you guys think. The designers are hosting a game jam starting next week, culminating in the launch of The Lone Blade: Developers' Edition, a compilation of 30 games in 3D and 2D, available later this month for Windows, Mac, iOS and Android. "We also have interactive discussions with users of the game jam's Road to Zero website, where you can provide feedback during development," I don't know too much

What's new in Crossing Souls Soundtrack:

With the patron saint's feast day falling the following week on May 22, May 16th the feast day of St. Andrew of Padua, it seems only fitting that we start a series of articles looking at one of the newest saints of the New Evangelization. If you've seen my previous articles on our patron saints and the "Holy Land," you'll know that I don't tend to get overly excited about saints, but St. Andrew of Padua did catch my eye. I felt there was too much excellence to be ignored. So let's start with his missions. "I am the true vine and you are the branches" Again, I present the true Franciscan message, the message of the martyred St. John I think is the closest we will come to God's accurate messengers of the gospel (Taken from Spiritual Friendship in John the Scot, by Charles Caraccioli, Ecumenical Institute of St. Louis) in this fast-paced-too-fast paced world. Today is one of those days when I just get in touch with, "Who is God to me," and, "How often am I not at home in heaven?" I seem to get in touch with a lot of my spiritual life these days. And today's day is no exception. I find myself getting ready for the Lord's banquet, and not for the usual kind of preparations. I, as a Franciscan, have a big feast where you get a big collection of great food at the end of the dinner, brought to you by the efforts and prayers of the crowd who bring their offerings of their lives. To me this seems so similar to being "at home" in heaven. If a saint can make friends with the crowd at his feast, if a saint can show mercy and affection towards his monks and parishioners, if a saint can guide us, guide my brothers and sisters to where Jesus is to be found, what kind of saint is he? God is God, He truly loves the community, He loves us and desires our alliance. It's easy as a saint to be present. What does it take for us to be there at the banquet? What do we need to do for ourselves to be able to reach out to the crowd, to be sure, but also not to be limited to speaking to our family, friends and neighbors, but who are so much more. People of other faiths, people who do not share our faith. The blind people
