Many thanks in advance! A: Having a column with empty data seems to be the cause of this error. Check your data types on that column or change them to string or varchar. Annie and Ron's Round Up of Yard Sales This story is part of a partnership that includes InvestigateWest, KUOW and The Seattle Times. Lori Wilson, 60, has lived in her Fremont home for 17 years. But on Saturday she suddenly had the urge to upgrade. "I thought, 'I don't care what it is, I'm taking it!'" she said. "I found a heap of furniture. I've got a big family." Around the corner from her home is the East Fremont Community Center, a giant warehouse where residents and businesses -- from hair salons to furniture stores -- drop off their trash to be cleaned up. The center is also where the parking lots, which resemble a neighborhood garage, are in the process of being transformed into de facto neighborhood garages. The community has made the center a central location for community events like the Fremont Farmer's Market, Korean Chamber of Commerce and Fremont Arts Council. As word spread on Saturday that the storage facility would be closed, so did people from all over -- Wilson included. "They're probably the same people who have parked in my lot over the years," Wilson said. "Some of them may have even lived in the neighborhood. I found a bunch of stuff." But she was surprised to learn she had actually picked up a Louis XIV table. "Wow, that's so fancy. Can I touch it?" she asked. "Oh, yeah, that's real," said Mike Williams. "No, it's real. It's actually -- those are not used." He explained the Craigslist ad was just a ruse to grab people's attention. Williams isn't even employed by the community center: he was just passing the time at his nearby residence when a friend posted a photo of the nearly full storage facility on Facebook. And was trying to avoid the rush himself. "I was probably going to come back another day," he said. "But, I mean, this was just too good to pass up." Wilma Larkin, who also frequents the center, said she was digging through boxes

Thanks! A: This should do the trick: SELECT t1.ID FROM TableY t1 WHERE NOT EXISTS ( SELECT 1 FROM TableY t2 WHERE t1.ID = t2.ID) You can use The Ticker as a standalone application or as a full feature content management system. As a standalone content management system it provides more functionality than a news 6d1f23a050
